Communication skills
I'm a good listener and I learnt to pay attention to nonverbal communication. I'm proud of being defined by colleagues, partners and clients as direct and clear. I always maintain an open mind towards my interlocutor with empathy and respect. I delivered a number of public presentations with some success and I'm able to manage almost every communication channel in a professional way.

Organisational / managerial skills
Thanks to my professional experience I learned how to keep tasks, deliverables, and projects under control so that business operations can flow smoothly. My time management skills always allowed me to bring on different activities at the same time. I'm currently coordinating various teams working on different projects, clients and prospects. This also requires a strong mental organization: I'm used to work with data, develop and measure strategies and present the results through reports and presentations.
